Have you ever wished you had superpowers that allowed you to see through gingiva to the root surface? Real time visualization of the root surface is possible with the use of the periodontal endoscope. This technology allows the clinician to play a key role in creating optimal oral health through enhanced vision using subgingival magnification and illumination.

This course will discuss the benefits of performing nonsurgical periodontal therapy aided by the use of the dental endoscope. Course topics covered will include an overview of the technology, instructions on how to use the endoscope as well as videos of actual procedures. Participants will also learn how to interpret images to identify normal root anatomy, calculus, caries, root anomalies, and fractures.

Learning Objectives: At the completion of this presentation, the participant will be able to:
- Define perioscopy
- Identify applications for perioscopy
- Discuss the benefits of perioscopy
- Recognize the limitations of perioscopy
- Interpret images as seen with the periodontal endoscope

Joanna L. Allaire is an Assistant Professor in the department of Periodontics and Dental Hygiene. She graduated from The University of Texas Dental Branch in 1978 with a certificate in dental hygiene and obtained her BSDH from UTD in 2007 and received her Master of Dental Hygiene in 2012 from The University of Tennessee Health Science Center. She currently teaches Periodontology as well as being the Senior Clinic Coordinator. Joanna was honored to receive the Lorna Bruning award for outstanding teaching in 2010 and 2012.

Ms. Allaire is an active member of the American Dental Hygienists’ Association and the Greater Houston Dental Hygienists’ Society where she has held numerous leadership positions and is currently the President.

Ms. Allaire has over 30 years of experience as a dental hygienist including 14 years in a progressive periodontal practice. She also worked as a Clinical Specialist for DentalView, training offices on the use of the periodontal endoscope and speaking on the topic of Perioscopy.

The opinions expressed herein are not necessarily those of the Editor, The Capital Area Dental Society Board of Directors or the Membership.
Any of these could use more hands on board. If you have special talents, wrote for a school newspaper, for example, and would like to rekindle that passion, please volunteer. Many of the members now on the board have done such an outstanding job, that they ARE that position. Remember, they are also practicing dentists just like the rest of us. They have been doing these jobs out of devotion to dentistry, CADS, and more importantly—you.

Please think about what you could offer to CADS. You receive so much more out of your profession by giving back. On that thought, I will leave you with one final quote from Aristotle—“What is the essence of life? To serve others and to do good.”

Sincerely,

CAPITAL STAR
A few days ago, I was talking on the phone with my brother-in-law and he mentioned that he googled me to get my office address so that he could mail me something. He remarked that, “you have a bunch of great reviews online”. I cringed. I make it a point to ignore those reviews because I saw one several years ago where someone was complaining that; “he cemented a crown without even using anesthesia and it hurt!” I looked back in the chart and saw that the tooth that had the crown cemented was endodontically treated. It still bothered me enough that someone had posted this that apparently, I still remember it.

A very caring oral surgeon told me that he had a bad review because a patient had to wait for treatment and they were being worked in as an emergency.

The reality is that anyone can post anything they want about you unless it is clearly defamation of character according to many articles that I have read on the subject of online reviews. An article entitled Online Reputation, Dentist, Negative Reviews posted on a search engine optimization website, The Visible Dentist.com, September 5, 2012 states that seeking a legal remedy to get a negative online review removed can cost you as much as $200,000 and chances are that you will lose. They recommend a 5-step process to attempt to remedy a bad review with graciousness and tact:

1. Validate the patient’s feelings; acknowledge that she is upset.
2. Let her know that you are sorry she experienced a problem and that you are glad she told you about it.
3. Assure her that you will make it right and something will be done.
4. Ask the patient how you can make it up to her — e.g. what will make her happy.
5. Make an offer to remedy the situation — one which shows you sincerely care about her.

A December 1, 2011 article posted on DrBicuspid.com, Lawsuit claims dentist stifled patients’ free speech rights, describes a New York dentist that was sued for requiring patients agree not to post negative comments about the doctor before the doctor would agree to treat them. Obviously, this is not a remedy to the problem of bad reviews.

A dentist has many roles to juggle every day and having an additional headache of monitoring web reviews is not one I care to add. There are businesses out there that provide a plan to monitor reviews. We are faced with two choices: monitor and worry about reviews or essentially ignore them. Online reviews are not always fair and never under our control. I believe that the best we can do is treat people right and provide the very best care that we can every time and let the chips fall where they may.

Since the August issue of the Capital Star, new developments have occurred in the lawsuit filed earlier this year by the American Academy of Implant Dentistry and two Texas implant credentialed dentists, Dr. Elliott and Dr. Buck, against the Texas State Board of Dental Examiners (SBDE) in Austin federal court. In that lawsuit, the Plaintiffs claimed the SBDE’s rule 108.55 violates their First Amendment constitutional right to commercial speech. Specifically, the Plaintiffs alleged the SBDE’s rule 108.55 severely limits advertising of additional credentials in dental practice areas that are not recognized as a specialty by the American Dental Association (ADA) or the SBDE.

On August 10, 2012, the SBDE met and proposed a wholesale revision of its dental advertising/business promotion rules and pulled the set of advertising rules proposed in May, 2012. Included in the August proposed rules is new proposed rule 108.56, which substantially modifies existing rule 108.55—the subject of the lawsuit. Proposed rule 108.56 allows dentists to advertise credentials with some caveats. The rule also provides guidance that a listing of credentials shall be separate and clearly distinguishable from the dentist’s designation as a dentist and that any use of credential abbreviations shall be accompanied by a definition of the acronym. For example:

John Doe, DDS, General Dentist
FAGD, Fellow Academy of General Dentistry

John Doe, DDS, General Dentist
FAAID, Fellow American Academy of Implant Dentistry

Also, proposed rule 108.55 requires that any advertisement of a dental service by a general dentist shall include the notation “General Dentist” or “General Dentistry” directly after the name of the dentist.

After the SBDE meeting on August 17, 2012, the SBDE filed its second unopposed motion for extension of the pretrial deadlines in the lawsuit. In its motion, the SBDE indicated that the Plaintiffs and SBDE continue to engage in conversations regarding potential revisions to the (existing) rule 108.55. SBDE further stated that due to the established timeline for meetings on and approval of potential changes to the rule, any revisions will not be finalized until mid-November 2012. On August 20, 2012, the motion was granted by Judge Yeakel and the deadlines in the lawsuit were extended to December 2012.

The next SBDE meeting is scheduled for November 9, 2012, and it is probable that the proposed new advertising rules will be considered for adoption at that meeting. Please note that the rule discussed above is currently PROPOSED (and not adopted).

The SBDE on its website, www.tsbde.state.tx.us, posts proposed and adopted rules. Such rules are also available in the Texas Register at the Texas Secretary of State’s website. The public can comment to the SBDE on proposed rules. Expect major and comprehensive changes to the Texas dental advertising rules.

What is CADF Doing to Increase Access to Dental Care?

A Seat at the Table

Did you know that CADF has been deeply involved for the past two years with a new group called the Central Texas Dental Collaborative? This group of non-profit organizations was convened by the St. David’s Foundation to develop a strategic action plan to improve access to care for underserved Central Texans.

“CADF is a big piece of this puzzle. Our dentists have an important role to play as we begin to implement action plans,” explains Stan LaCroix, DDS, a member of the Central Texas Dental Collaborative steering committee.

Does the camera love you?

If so, the Dentists on Campus (DOCS) program needs your help. One of the goals of the Central Texas Dental Collaborative is to expand education programs so that more children and families have information they need to prevent dental problems in the first place. One idea being explored is working with Austin schools to develop a series of curriculum-based video presentations that can be aired on television.

For more information about different ways to get involved, please contact Stan LaCroix, DDS, at 512-327-5210 and visit: www.capitalareadentalfoundation.org

Gelfand Group exclusively represents dentists in leasing and purchasing office space.

We are experts in Space Location & Contract Negotiation

Gelfand Group Commercial Real Estate is pleased to have represented K.G. Amin, DMD in this transaction.

“Gelfand Group combined their knowledge of the unique needs of dental professionals and highly effective negotiation techniques to secure a solid lease contract for my new endodontic office. I’ve been practicing as an endodontist for 7 years in Arizona, so it was great to have a local contact as thorough as Norman Gelfand help me relocate my practice to Austin. I am so fortunate that he was “in my corner” and committed to my goals from the very beginning.” — Ketan “KG” Amin, DMD

Call 512-833-5300 for a one hour consultation, at no cost, regarding any real estate matter.

Tournament water skiers hit the jump ramp well above the boat’s speed! At high speed a skier needs to practice great technique. Each detail has a profound impact when you’re landing 85 feet down course. When he’s not skiing Dr. Weil is practicing the same critical focus on technique in the service of his oral surgery patients. Dr. Weil graduated at the top of his class from Baylor College of Dentistry and then finished his medical degree with Honors at the University of Texas Health Science Center in San Antonio. He joined Austin Oral Surgery in 1997 because he wanted to work around “great, affable surgeons”. We feel the same way about him. And, it’s amazing to have a partner who can actually fly! Dr. Weil practices at our North Central location.
